Senior Infosystems Major Russell Sturgeon, Post Office Supervisor Ronnie Farris, and Facilities employee Ms. Ethiopia represent the diversity in community that is Lipscomb University.

Located in the heart of campus, Collins Alumni Auditorium is home to long standing Lipscomb traditions.

Jimmy Hampton leads a daily chapel service, during which Lipscomb takes time to worship God.

A Banner Year

“Community, Spirituality, Tradition, Excellence”

These four characteristic traits of life at Lipscomb University are seen every day in the lives of students, faculty, staff, and administrators on campus. Since October of 1891, the Lipscomb community of teachers and learners, leaders and followers has come together to create the unique experience that is Lipscomb University. Each year we have combined hopes, dreams, hearts and hands in ways that have made that particular Lipscomb experience special. This year has been no exception. In fact, this year has been “A Banner Year!”

Lipscomb's academic excellence is due largely to a dedicated and well-trained faculty.

Each day as we walk the Lipscomb campus we are reminded of the sense of community, the desire for spirituality, the respect of tradition, and the goal of excellence. These reminders come in the form of the banners displayed around campus, but more importantly they come from people and events that have touched our lives during the school year. This year our community was larger than ever before because of a record enrollment. We worshipped and prayed together, and together reached out to the community and world around us, wanting others to see and learn of the One to whom we belong. We are proud of the accomplishments of those in our community, award winning musical performances, athletic teams who grew and competed in NCAA competition, academic programs reaccredited by national organizations, impressive acceptance rates of students to graduate and professional schools, a new nursing degree program, a growing engineering program, and expanding graduate programs. We enjoyed leaving our mark on traditional performances like Singarama and Delta Na Na Na. We also watched as another group of our peers moved into the ranks of Lipscomb alumni. Indeed, this year has been “A Banner Year.”

The 2004 Backlog has been created from the perspective of representing the Lipscomb experience in the contexts of community, spirituality, tradition, and excellence. It is our hope that as you view the pages of this book, you will feel a sense of pride and belonging. Yes, we took our cue in organizing the year from the banners presented on campus, but the people, events, emotions, and memories of the year 2003-2004 have brought life and meaning to the sentiments presented on those flags. It has definitely been “A Banner Year,” not because of a set of flags, but because of a special group of people.

A Banner Year for Community

The Lipscomb University community reunited once again in August to write another chapter in this school's history. As it had been for 113 years, our goal during 2003-04 was to foster a community of participants who searched for truth and contemplated its relevance for life. As it had been for 113 years, we gathered as a result of a vision shared by David Lipscomb and James A. Harding, the vision of a community of God's servants interested in teaching and learning about the Creator of life and about the life He created. And this year we were a community of record size. With an enrollment of 2646 students and with over 350 administrators, faculty, and staff, we came to form the community for 2003-04 that would be unique to Lipscomb's history. We created a community comprised of people from more than 40 states and 20 countries with a community membership ranging from first semester freshman to faculty members with more than 40 years of community service. We came together with the promise of youth, the wisdom of age, and the stability of an established purpose. And we congregated respecting the long shadows cast by strong, productive Lipscomb communities who preceded us, most notably that small community in 1891 consisting of nine students and three faculty.

And so we gathered as a community of students, faculty, staff, and administrators committed to seeking truth, desiring to communicate it to others, and allowing it to change our lives in order to more completely realize God's higher calling for each interests, experiences, intellectual objectives, and dreams. We gathered as a community of long-time residents and new kids on the block. We gathered as a community with differences and similarities, with problems and solutions, with excitement and apprehension. We gathered as a community with preconceptions and misconceptions, with faith and with doubt. But most of all, we gathered as a community whose objective it was to grow in wisdom and in favor with God and man, waiting to take our own place among the citizenship who have shaped and refined Lipscomb University into what it is today- a community of faith, hope, and love.

“What’s in a Name?”

The history of our yearbook, the Backlog, is somewhat uncertain. The first yearbook of the Nashville Bible School, now called Lipscomb University, was printed by the senior class in 1911 and was called The Ark. The name Zenith was later given in 1914. The actual annual was published in 1922 when the first Back Log appeared. Within three years the name became one word. The yearbook continued to be a senior project for many years.

ADVANCE 2003

What do you get when you put together a hot summer, more than 150 incoming freshmen, and bundles of fun? Advance 2003! This freshmen orientation is led by the Assistant Dean of Campus Life, Sarah Keith Gamble, and her group of tireless workers, the Quest Team. This team, consisting of a group of twenty-four sophomores, juniors, and seniors, devoted their time to planning Advance. Then they lead small group activities to help students get to know each other during Advance and the first weeks of school. Also during this day and a half, the Lipscomb faculty and staff tell the students about the procedures and opportunities on campus.

As darkness falls on the first day, Lipscomb's fun side shows itself. After a devotional and a small-group meeting, all of the students move to the cafeteria for "Nocturnal Madness," mixer games on mass-scale. At midnight, many students return to their dorm room with a new roommate. Beginning at 8 o'clock, the freshmen meet with their advisors to hammer out their schedules. Then they head to the computer center to register for their classes. After they are done, they stop by to grab their Advance t-shirt and say good-bye to new friends.

Jim McDowell tells Courtney Cross and Will Colten about the exciting events held at Lipscomb each year.

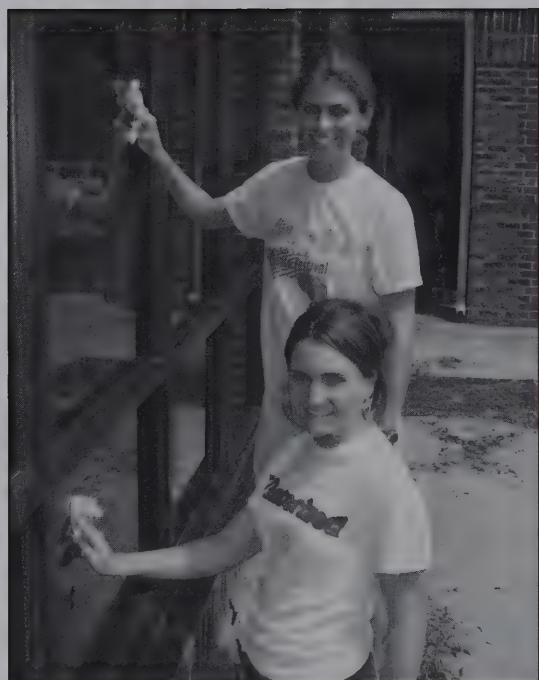

Summer Advance sessions provide valuable information for both incoming students and their parents.

Adelynn Franks flashes her smile while flexing her muscles as she carries out boxes of junk.

Emilee Diggs reorganizes folders at a local warehouse.

Katie Moss and Elizabeth Bumpus polish windows for a disabled children's shelter.

Incoming freshmen help clear out the storage area at a local warehouse.

Quest Service Day 2003

Building a life of service one box at a time

Before starting the first day of their new life at Lipscomb, the new freshman class volunteered at their new community. More than 350 students gave their time to surrounding organizations.

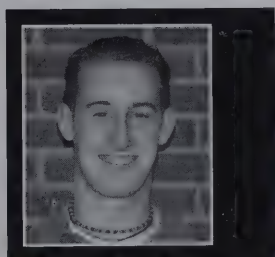

The Quest team, a group of Lipscomb upperclassmen who gave their time and hard work, organized the third annual beginning-of-the-year "Service Day." Led by Ms. Sarah Keith Gamble, they strived to ease students' transition into the vast college life that awaits them, highlighting local opportunities to contribute to society.

With over twenty different locations around the state of Tennessee, students had the option of joining Outlook Nashville, Second Harvest Food Bank, Community Housing Partnership, Monroe Harding Children Home, Nashville Rescue Mission, Healing Hands International, and many more. Such opportunities allowed students to develop lifelong skills working with the mentally disabled children, the elderly, and the homeless. Such skills lay at the very essence of Lipscomb and the heritage it passes on to students.

For the incoming freshman class, service day was a celebration of their new life that extended their joy to others beyond the borders of this campus.

"Why did you choose Lipscomb?"

Phillip Weaver

"Because I wanted to surround myself with people who would hold me accountable to what I believe."

Jessica Smith

"Lipscomb presented itself to be a wonderful place to continue my education in a Christian atmosphere."

Kohei Takamuku

"Because fortune cookie told me to. Just kidding."

Jessica Butler

"Because my whole family came to Lipscomb."

INTERNATIONAL SQUARE FAIR

A crowd debated in Bison Square whether or not Lipscomb had invested in a new piece of artwork as they stared at a statue. This statue, which periodically moved with robotic-like actions, was one of the many features of the International Square Fair that was held on September 25-27, 2003. The festivities included representatives from Egypt, Germany, Czech Republic, China, and Mexico. Sally Bebawy, originally from Egypt, was asked what was the driving force behind the event. She explained that the Square Fair afforded a "great opportunity for those who seek a truthful understanding of God's people to gain encouragement and insight from a diverse group of people." With this thought in mind, the traditional Indian dance, ethnic-food sampling, and tribal-music performances took on a broader meaning. Many students now hope to use this year's success as a foundation to help people better understand the vast cultures surrounding them.

A Vietnamese student offers her last appetizing doughnuts to hungry students.

Flags from the various countries around the world where many Lipscomb students live were displayed in Shamblin Theatre.

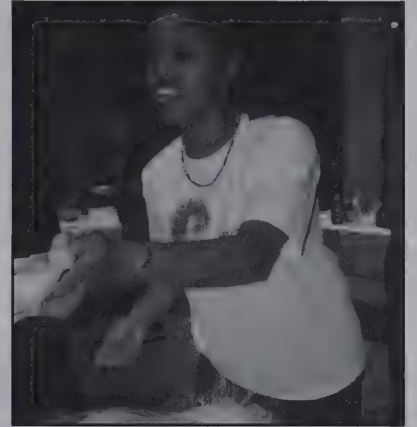

Many people stopped to look at a human statue from Greece and question what it was doing.

Various dancers and musicians performed throughout the weekend.

Winta Mahari graciously offers hungry students a sample of Cuban food.

Dabney Phillips and Phillip Weaver sumo-wrestle at the Japan site.

"Being an international student bestowes great responsiblity to represent my country well. Being an international student at Lipscomb demands that I not only be an ambassador for my country, but also one for God." Ludine McWinney

Rush Fair

Rush Fair is an opportunity for all students to express an interest in joining the Lipscomb Social Club system. Each club is asked to set up a booth to show what their club has to offer. Some clubs like Delta Delta, Gamma Lambda, and Delta Sigma decorate their tables in activity pictures, mascots, t-shirts, and scrapbooks of their club's activities. Others like Sigma Omega Sigma, Sigma Iota Delta, and Tau Phi provide activities for their visitors to enjoy.

About one in five of Lipscomb students are involved in a social club. These clubs are chartered to promote the spiritual mission of the school while providing avenues for social development on campus. Currently there are 14 social clubs overseen by the Office of Campus Life. Major club activities include athletics, Singarama, formals, and a variety of service projects.

Kelly Garrett, Pledge Mistress, sets up Delta Delta's booth to display their shirts and scrapbooks.

What really is the Archegos System? It is named for the greek word meaning "trailblazer" or "first to do something," the Archegos system is a new club system designed to enhance freshman involvement and to create opportunities for more connections on campus. Archegos clubs are affiliated with the 14 chartered social clubs on campus and are open to anyone who desires to participate.

Two Sigma Iota Delta men eye their sacrificial car that they are about to demolish in honor of Rush Fair.

The Tau Phi men are enjoying their cookout at Rush Fair.

Are you in a Social Club/Archegos or Rushing?

"Yes, I'm rushing for Delta Delta. I think it's a good way to meet people and just to hang out."

- Sophomore, April Wallner

"Yes. I'm in Archegos so I can meet new people and make new friends."

-Freshman, Brittany Redmond

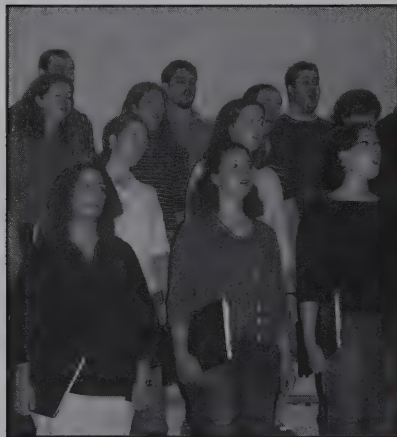

"I am planning to, but I'm not doing anything this semester because I want to get some good study habits going."

A Real "Family Weekend" Reunion

Family Weekend gives the opportunity for students and parents alike to spend time experiencing Lipscomb from a different point of view. This weekend is set aside for university parents to learn about the new events on campus and to spend time with their children. Special events such as a breakfast honoring the parents, sporting events, and the traditional Tau Phi Cowboy show are held. This weekend is enjoyed by both students and parents.

The A Cappella Singers and University Singers performed a concert for their parents.

The Lipscomb family encourages students to invite their parents to join in on the weekend's activities.

Students enjoy talking to loved ones while waiting on the next fun filled activity to begin.

Family members enjoy a breakfast meal together on Saturday of Family Weekend.

For this family playing dominoes, the weekend is filled with plenty of free time to spend with each other.

Whitney Hudson sang a solo that the crowd loved.

In October 2003, Tau Phi celebrated 25 years of the Cowboy Show. Nearly 40 performers entertained a packed house with two acts of great country music.

A special twist to this year's show was that alumni were invited to come back and sing. Some alumni featured were Jeff Piatt, Richard Morrison, and Don Cyr. Sherrilyn Tallent, the first female to ever perform with Tau Phi, also came back.

Slide shows featuring pictures of the club and performances from years past also helped celebrate the 25th anniversary of the show.

Philip Henry, the master of ceremonies, tied the entire show together with his off-beat humor. The 2003 graduate was on hand to cheer on his younger sister, Amanda Henry, in her second Tau Phi performance.

What does a University Ambassador do?

Lipscomb University's mission has always been to enlighten those who are concerned with learning. In order to inform interested students on what Lipscomb University has to offer, the Admissions Office has appointed a group of students to truthfully represent this university. They provide interested visitors with the information to help them make the most appropriate decision for their college choice. Lipscomb's ambassadors shed light on the fact that this university's safe environment and healthy atmosphere is suitable for the most critical stage in one's life. With visitors' interest as their main priority, UAs hold Lipscomb as the right answer when seeking Christian growth and the best education.

The College of Arts and Humanities actively promotes the university's commitment to the liberal arts as a means of gaining wisdom and understanding. The college is composed of the School of Fine and Performing Arts (which includes the departments of Art, Music, and Theater) and three other departments: English; Foreign Languages; and History, Politics and Philosophy. Majors in these areas are prepared for professional careers and further graduate studies in many different fields. Beyond discipline-specific knowledge, the college strives to help its students gain the wisdom and understanding essential for effective leadership in both public and Christian service.

The College of Bible and Ministry

Dr. Terry Briley
Dean

"Teaching the word of God is made an essential part, indeed, of the essence of the Christian religion," so wrote David Lipscomb, our university's founder. The college pursues that focus in two ways. General education Bible classes required of all Lipscomb students not only impart information about the scriptures but also confront students with the teachings of Jesus Christ, calling them to lifelong discipleship.

Undergraduate Bible major and graduate Bible classes mentor students in various aspects of ministry, calling them to be servants to the world for the sake of Christ and His word.

The College of Business

The College of Business at Lipscomb University seeks to provide students with a common body of knowledge of business administration along with specific business skills necessary in the workplace. It seeks to prepare students to deal with work and personal situations in an ethical and Christian manner.

The academic programs consist of a broad liberal arts component, followed by the business core, and ending with specialization courses in accounting, finance, economics, management, marketing and organizational communication. All business majors focus on computer technology, communication skills, ethical issues, a global emphasis and an integrating experience. Practical applications can be achieved through business clubs and organizations, a mentoring program, and internship opportunities.

The College of Business consists of four departments: Accounting, Finance and Economics, Management, and Marketing. College faculty concentrate on teaching, advising, and working with student organizations. Secondary duties involve faculty in research, publications, professional meetings, consulting, and workshops. The faculty of the College of Business is committed to fostering relationships with the business community and encouraging exchanges among students and businesses.

The College of Education and Professional Studies

The College of Education and Professional Studies is composed of the Departments of Communication, Undergraduate and Graduate Education, Family and Consumer Sciences, Kinesiology, and Social Work and Sociology. Each department is committed to the betterment of society through programs and services designed to encourage students to reach their fullest potential through serving others.

It was the Greek poet, Homer, who instilled each of his heroes with the concept of Arete: the desire which compels individuals to strive for excellence. That motivation is not limited to a field, a study or a position. It is an ongoing challenge which urges participants to search for a better way, to achieve a higher level, to provide a better service.

The College of Education and Professional Studies seeks to encourage Arete within each individual enrolling in our studies. Our heritage allows no less; our conviction accepts no less.

Jones School of Engineering is also housed within the college and consists of the departments of Physics and Engineering, Electrical and Computer Engineering, and Engineering Mechanics. The curricula offered are designed to provide solid foundations in the disciplines and excellent preparation for professional studies. Graduates of these programs may enter the job market directly or may pursue graduate work, medical or allied health studies.

Dedicated, competent faculty provide opportunities and experiences through which students may come to a better understanding of and appreciation for the complexity and order of the created world in which we live.

Under the leadership of Associate Dean Fred Gilliam, the Raymond B. Jones School of Engineering provides the opportunity for students to pursue an engineering profession in the environment of a Christian education. The School is divided into three degree granting departments: Electrical and Computer Engineering, Engineering Mechanics, and Physics and Engineering. Additionally, the Pre-Engineering/Dual Degree Program allows students to continue their education at affiliated universities and receive degrees from both schools.

A Banner Year for Spirituality

Written by Dr. George Goldman

For many, the term spirituality refers to a specific category of beliefs or activities that in some way could be classified as “religious.” In this category one would expect to find such things as devotionals, retreats, chapels, Bible classes, mission trips, and such like. All these things go on at Lipscomb University, but many people here recognize that these things do not necessarily make one spiritual. True spirituality is not defined by certain activities or events. True spirituality is allowing God’s Spirit access to every part of our lives. So, when students think back about how Lipscomb has affected them spiritually, the hope is that they recall friendships with teachers and fellow students, sitting in a swing enjoying the weather, a good-natured snowball fight, even studying for a math test. Paul wrote, “Whatever you do in word or deed, do it all in the name of Jesus Christ.” Spirituality means more than memorizing facts for Bible classes or going on mission trips. It’s a way of life. It transforms everything. Canceling classes so that students and faculty can do service projects does not display or increase the spirituality of a campus. Students and faculty glorifying God in their classes and in all areas of their lives, that’s what makes Lipscomb University a truly spiritual place to be. The events that take place at Lipscomb that are typically deemed as adding to “spirituality” are good and necessary, and can also be pictured in a Backlog. May the broader movements of the Spirit, though invisible to cameras and human eyes, be witnessed and blessed by the One who sees what no one else can.

Chapel

Lipscomb students have the unique opportunity to gather together for daily worship in Chapel or University Bible. Male students have the chance to participate in a public way by leading singing during the devotional time or speaking to the student body.

Chapel is held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. This year the concept of "Breakout Chapel" was introduced for the entire academic school year. Students were given the privilege to choose a small group with them they would worship with every Friday. These groups are made up of social clubs, academic groups, professional clubs, multicultural groups, and service clubs, among many others.

University Bible

Each full-time student is required to take two Bible classes each semester, one of which is "University Bible." This "whole student body approach" was used effectively in the early years of Lipscomb's history. The 2003-2004 school year topics of discussion was "The Christian in Culture" and "Servant Leadership."

Faith Informed Learning

"Faith informed learning means to me that I can share in my lectures who I am and more importantly that I can share why I live the way that I live- because of the grace of GOD. To me the teaching of mathematics and the teaching of GOD go hand in hand since mathematics is a creation of GOD." - Dr. Gary Hall

Lipscomb professors have the unique opportunity to integrate faith into their teaching styles. Being a student at a Christian university affords the benefit of having a well rounded education. Students do not only learn from an assigned text but from the Bible. Many non-Bible professors choose to include in their assigned readings scripture from various books of the Bible.

"A belief in the One who is truth and who possesses perfect understanding must surely influence my own pursuit of knowledge." Dr. Randy Bouldin

"For me as an historian, faith-informed learning is when the causes and effects of historical events are seen through the eyes of faith. By that I do not mean looking for the finger of God, which would require additional revelation, but understanding that all the efforts of humanity to solve its own problems, exclusive of God, have failed. Attempting to rule with impunity, requiring that everything be explained rationally, following the nation-state blindly, and determining what is best for oneself unilaterally have all ended in the unraveling of the fabric of civilization. Only when history is viewed as the unfolding of a sovereign creator's plan can we humble ourselves to his will for our lives, which changes us and, consequently, the society in which we live." - Dr. Jerry Gaw

"Teaching has been called 'an act of faith' as well as 'a calling' by many who have undertaken this most noble profession. As a result, it is difficult to take faith out of discussions about education. I love being at a university where faith does inform learning and faith doesn't have to be artificially removed from discussions surrounding teaching - a service that Jesus himself embodied."

- Dr. Candice McQueen

"Besides teaching how to do engineering, I show how the practice of engineering is part of God's plan. I teach that God assigned us to be stewards of His creation (Genesis 1:28, 2:15), and gave us the ability to develop the engineering necessary to our assigned stewardship."

- Dr. George O'Connor

with God and Man

Academic experiences are not confined to regular class attendance. Throughout the year, many special opportunities are provided for faculty, students and the surrounding community to come together and hear from speakers whose topics range from writing, to government service, to spiritual issues. These special lectures enable us to grow intellectually, civically, and spiritually.

Perhaps the most unique of these lectures this year occurred on September 26, 2003 when Judge Gilbert Merritt, senior judge, 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, spoke on Lipscomb's campus. Merritt was one of 13 judicial officials sent by the U.S. Department of Justice to reconstruct the criminal justice system in Iraq. Judge Merritt's reflections provided a powerful first-hand perspective of the current situation in Iraq.

Other special lectures included those provided by two annual series of events that have become the sources for extensions of academic and spiritual scholarship, the Landiss Lecture Series and the Summer Celebration. The late Dr. Morris P. Landiss, longtime chair of the English Department, established a fund to support the lecture series that bears his name. Dr. Landiss dreamed of bringing to the campus practicing writers and critics along with scholars of national reputation to challenge the minds of those in the Lipscomb community as well as the community at large. The tradition of bringing leaders in the literary world to camp was continued this year with Will Campbell, Silas House, and Cecilia Tichi.

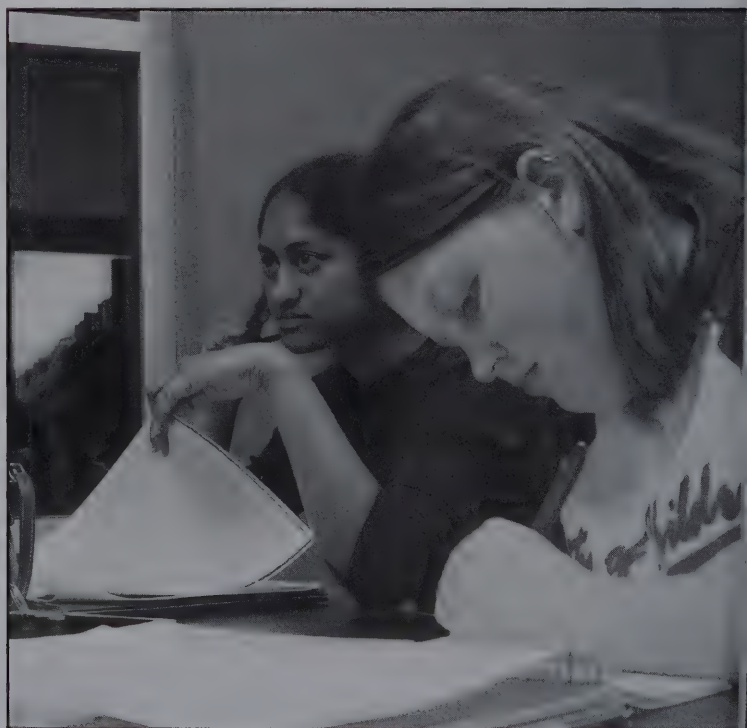

The Summer Celebration is a series of lectures and classes for the sole purpose of studying God's word and understanding more completely His will for us. The 2003 lectureship was held July 2-5. The theme "Jesus, Name Above All Names" brought visitors to campus from around the country. The keynote address was delivered by Jeff Walling, preaching minister for the Providence Road church of Christ, Charlotte, North Carolina. For the first time the lectureship was held during the fourth of July holidays. Consequently, a special patriotic program featuring an old-fashioned barbecue, live music and impressive fireworks was held at Allen Arena on Independence Day. A capacity crowd of lectureship attendees and guests from the surrounding community celebrated both America and the joys of brotherly love.

...I am with you always..." Matthew 28:19-20

TRIPS

Many students before, during and after the school year participate in some kind of mission work. Some students spend their entire summer as an youth intern at a church, and others go to the outer most parts of the world to distribute materials and aide to those in need. Lipscomb students are servants at heart.

MISSION TRIPS

MISSION TRIPS

These pictures are from trips in Great Britain, Scotland, Habitat for Humanities, Guatemala, Honduras, and Baja Mexico. These trips are just a few examples of the many trips that students take each year.

World Missions Workshop

Headed by Dr. Earl Lavender and his missions committee, Lipscomb University was privileged to host numerous missionaries and evangelists who had experiences to share and advice to present. They came from various countries, many areas of the nation, and several organizations.

The workshop took place on October 17-18, 2003, enabling Lipscomb students to participate in the workshop over their Fall Break.

Students and visitors had the opportunity to attend an informative debate between Lipscomb professors Dr. Lee Camp and Dr. Richard Goode that analyzed our actions during missions to other cultures. Participants could also attend the session on Islam that explored the fundamentals of the religion. Jim McGuiggan also hosted several secession sharing his enthusiasm for Christ and the joy in the promise of salvation. Various organizations also set up booths presenting the services they offer to missionaries. Also, representatives from foundations like SHOA, MEDICAL INTERNATIONAL, and HELPING HANDS offered their expertise and opportunities for mission trips.

People were excited to register for the World Missions Workshop and the different events that were held.

While they wait for the workshop to begin, people stand in the lobby of Allen Arena and look through their information packets.

The World Missions Workshop gave people the opportunity to meet many other Christians from other parts of the country and the world.

Representatives were able to explain various mission trips and service opportunities available to those who wish to participate.

While the rest of the student body anxiously awaited Thanksgiving break, one LU student-Lincoln Rogers-spent his day surrounded by lights, cameras, and Emmy Award-winning news reporter Kelly O'Donnell of NBC's Today Show.

"NBC wanted to do a clip about how I have gone through cancer treatments during my time my first semester at Lipscomb," Rogers said. He was interviewed by O'Donnell on November 10.

Rogers was diagnosed with Wilms' Tumor Kidney Cancer in December of 2000 at the age of 17.

He applied to the Make a Wish Foundation of Middle Tennessee and was granted his wish of attending Lipscomb to further his education. In the fall of 2001, Rogers finished his chemotherapy and enrolled at LU. Since then, his story has spread nation wide.

"It's been a totally life changing experience," Rogers said. "My story has gone nation wide on the Associated Press wire and has been in newspapers such as the USA TODAY, the Boston Globe, and and many others across the country in every state. It was also told by a national magazine for high school students, College Bound Magazine."

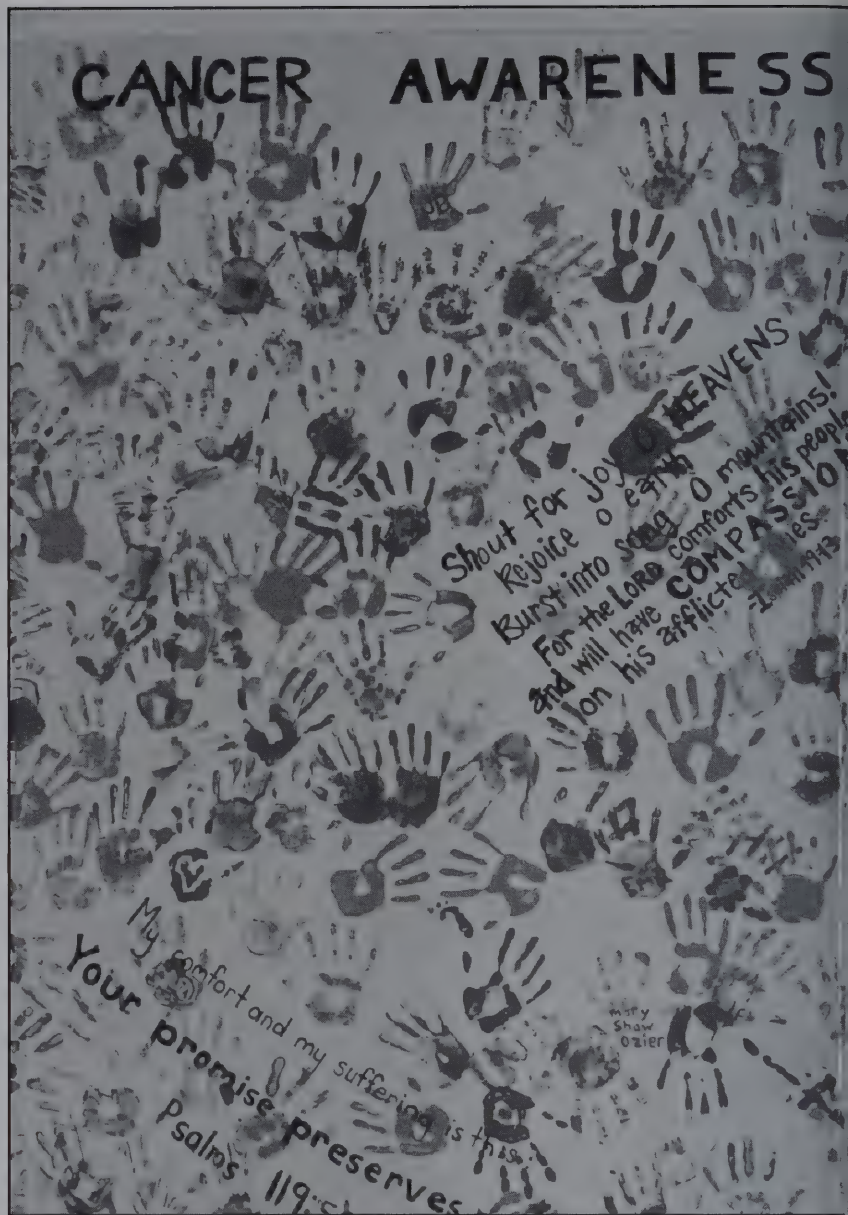

About his Today Show interview: "It was very intense," Rogers said. "The days before the interview were stressful because I had to think about what I was going to say that would be a positive influence on others, and I had to practice piano, which they are going to show in the clip."

The interview began at 8:00 A.M. at Rogers's home in Winchester. Rogers and his parents Kristy and Wade Rogers were interviewed by O'Donnell for over two hours.

After that, the news crew packed up and shot footage of Rogers in his anatomy class at Lipscomb, having lunch at Radnor Lake, and studying with his friends in the dorm. Filming ended at 5:00 P.M.

"It was a great experience overall," Rogers said, "because Kelly O'Donnell was so nice, and she led me through everything and made it seem easy. Also, the producer for the clip, John Rutherford, was very encouraging and helpful."

Rogers, who has been cancer-free since the August of 2002, is very involved in campus life. He is a junior, an SGA senator on the Academic Committee, sang with Lipscomb's A Cappella Singers his freshman and sophomore years, and is resuming the piano.

Conversations

Conversations has played a vital role in accomplishing the mission of informing and presenting students with different cultures, different ideas, and different perspectives. In pursuit of that goal, Conversations, with the aid of the Multicultural Association, brought Ms. Elizabeth Echford one of the students of Little Rock Nine to campus. Under the leadership of Chris Brosey and Keino McWhinney, an international panel of diverse Lipscomb students shared experiences, perspectives, and hopes for the present and the future. With the help of the Lipscomb Missions department, Conversations offered another panel discussing the diverse missions field.

Inner City Ministry and Fools for Christ

Lipscomb University is a place of servant hearts. Members of the Lipscomb community participate regularly in effective mission efforts that take place away from our everyday surroundings. However, there are also mission opportunities in our own back yard. Many Lipscomb students, faculty, and staff donate their time and energy on a regular basis to programs whose goal it is to spread God's love and truth to those in Nashville's inner city.

Nashville's Inner City Ministry provides spiritual encouragement to both children and adults. Each week, hundreds of children from the inner city are brought to area churches of Christ where they hear about the Bible in an exciting way. Lipscomb students ride the buses that transport the children and help with the teaching of the Bible classes. More than 70 local congregations are involved in this aspect of the program, serving children from ages 3 through high school. On Sunday and Wednesday nights the Inner City Church of Christ meets at the Vulture Church of Christ building where both adults and children participate in worship and Bible study.

Fools for Christ is a ministry to the homeless in Nashville. The effort was begun by five Lipscomb students in the fall of 1996. The program is now under the auspices of the elders at the Green Street Church of Christ, but it continues to involve many Lipscomb students who have a heart for the homeless ministry.

Participants in this ministry provide food for the homeless. The food is taken to them and is also provided at the church building at Green Street. The main mission of the Fools for Christ program is to provide for the homeless an awareness of God's love for them and also to show them how that love works through Christ's church. After meals are provided at the church building, a worship service is held where servers and those served come together to worship the One who had no place to lay His head but who, nonetheless, loved and gave all He had to give.

FOG
Focus On God

A Banner Year for Tradition

Builders of grand basilicas and cathedrals spent their whole lives preparing a place of worship, not living to see its completion, but trusting the benefit to the next generations. Likewise, matching in profound dedication and faith in God's continuous work, Lipscomb teachers bequeath accumulated knowledge and wisdom to the young flock of God.

Founded in 1891 as the Nashville Bible School, founder David Lipscomb stated, "The supreme purpose of the school shall be to...train those who attend in a pure Bible Christianity." True to its foundation, Lipscomb University holds a vision of developing individuals spiritually, socially, physically, and intellectually, equipped to serve an unchanging God and an ever-changing world.

Lipscomb's traditions of daily Bible and chapel, Singarama, "eat 'em out night" at Granny White Church of Christ, Delta Na Na Na, long nights of studying and short nights of sleep all play a significant part in what we know as Lipscomb. And it all finally culminates in the grand tradition of graduation and the final tolling of the bell.

The Torch Award and Founder's Day

On October 3, 2003 Lipscomb University presented longtime Nashville businessman Miles Ezell, Jr. with the university's highest honor, the "Torch Award." The award was presented during Founders' Day chapel by Lipscomb President Steve Flatt. The award honors those who have "performed distinguished service to this university, and who have embodied the spirit of Christ in every endeavor – in family, church, business or community," Flatt said. "I know of no person or family who is more uniformly respected and appreciated than Miles Ezell Jr. and the extended Ezell family for their leadership, integrity and generosity in business, in the church and community. His leadership and generosity have had a significant impact on the distinctive quality that characterizes Lipscomb University today. He is the kind of role model we want our students to focus on," Flatt said.

Ezell expressed thanks for the award but said "I feel a bit guilty about accepting it because I've received so much more from Lipscomb than I've put in. What Lipscomb has meant to my family and friends, and the influence the teachers and leaders here have made, I can't express the blessings we have received," Ezell said. Ezell attended Lipscomb University before earning his bachelor's degree in dairy technology from The Ohio State University in 1950. Later he joined the family business, Purity Dairies. From 1980 until 2002 he was a member of the Lipscomb University Board of Trustees and served as chair from 1991-97. For 30 years, he served as an elder at Una Church of Christ.

Ezell was instrumental in establishing the Youth Hobby Shop, now Youth Encouragement Services. He was also a charter member of the AGAPE board and served four terms as chair. He was a board member and president of the Tennessee Dairy Products Association, board member and chair of the Milk Industry Foundation, Washington, D.C., the Charlotte Fanning Foundation, The Nature Conservancy-Tennessee Chapter, and the American Red Cross. He has also been a member of the Metro Nashville Human Relations Commission, served on the AmSouth bank board, and is continues to serve on the board of the Washington Foundation.

Lipscomb University conducts a Founders' Day convocation annually on or near the anniversary of the school's establishment on Oct. 5, 1891. This year also marks the 100th anniversary of the university's relocation to its present site, which was once a farm owned by David Lipscomb.

February 7, 2004

Home coming festivities were held during the first weekend of February.

The Homecoming play Curious Savage, provided an opportunity for alumni to act again on Lipscomb's stage. Lipscomb's own Nick Boone and Jennifer Driver provided the talent for fun of the roles for this dynamic comedy. Lipscomb's men and womens basketball teams played host to teams from Florida Atlantic and Central Florida.

In addition to the traditional homecoming festivities, "A Walk Down Memory Lane" was introduced as the music department's presentation.

In its inaugural year, a new "Met My Mate at Lipscomb" reunion was held in McQuiddy Gym and hosted by Former President Willard Collins.

In the main event on February 7, 2004, Miss Bethany Leaver was crowned Lipscomb's 2004 Homecoming Queen.

Lipscomb is home to the Tennessee Kappa chapter of Alpha Chi, a national honor society which recognizes and encourages scholarship among its members. Each fall the chapter inducts the top ten percent of the junior and senior classes. The chapter members participate in a variety of campus events and service projects. In the fall of 2003 a mind challenge game night was held at Avalon, the Lipscombs' home. In the spring the chapter in conjunction with the Honors Program sponsored a Student Academic Paper Forum to give members as well as other students the opportunity to practice presenting a paper.

The chapter also sponsors two service projects. An ongoing project sends 4 volunteers to the Adventure Science Center one Saturday each month. The volunteers serve as guides in the center and helpers at party events. At the end of the spring semester the members helped to collect unused school supplies which were given to our Pencil Partner, Croft Middle School.

Lipscomb Social Clubs are part of a long-time tradition. These clubs provide an opportunity for students to form life-long friendships with others on campus. Wonderful memories of Formals, Anti-formals, Hay rides, and other social events fill each school year. Personal and spiritual growth are also encouraged through devotionals and service activities.

Pledging for Delta Delta is always a wonderful adventure.

High Rise Hall

The dorms at Lipscomb all have a unique feel to them, but the male dorm High Rise is in a class by itself. Towering above the three story dorms, High Rise scrapes the sky with eight floors. One unique aspect about High Rise is its Movie Room, a room on the main floor where guys and girls can watch movies together. It houses about 350 men, and employs 16 Resident Assistants. High Rise also has an Assistant Head Resident, Sam Parnell, who helps Head Resident Mike Smith with his responsibilities. When asked what makes High Rise different from the other dorms, Mike Smith said that it would definitely be their sense of community. He says that High Rise is a great place to develop lasting friendships.

to work on a group project.

SewellHall

Sewell Hall is Lipscomb's smallest dorm, housing around 160 men. The small atmosphere makes Sewell's residents very close, and they have a strong sense of community. Sewell has a wonderful large lobby where the men enjoy spending time together, while playing pool or ping-pong. Sewell's Head Resident is Sam Smith who works with seven Resident Assistants who plan events like camping, white-water rafting, hall devotionals, and service projects. Sewell is conveniently located near the Student Center and Allen Arena.

OPEN DORM

Open Dorm Night is a new tradition at Lipscomb which allows students to socialize with members of the opposite sex in their dorm rooms. This school year, Open Dorm Night was allowed to take place on a regular basis. from 7 - 10 p.m. Every first and third Thursday of the month, females are allowed to drop in on their male friends. Likewise, males can stop by their female friend's room every second and fourth Thursday of the month. Open Dorm is definitely a favorite student tradition.

ElamHall

Elam Hall is the largest of the three women's dorms, housing around 340 girls. Elam's location near the Student Center makes the lobby a prime place to hang out with friends. Elam also has an outside courtyard in the center of the building and a community kitchen. Elam is known for its wonderful hall devotionals and special events, such as annual cookouts. Head Resident Leann Clower and 11 Resident Assistants keep Elam running smoothly.

Leann Clower is Elam Hall's Head Resident.

Fanning Hall

Of the three girls' dorms, Fanning stands out as different because the basic layout is different than the other two girls' dorms. Instead of individual rooms, Fanning is arranged in suites. There are eight girls to a suite and every suite has its own bathroom and living room. Fanning houses around 280 girls and employs nine Resident Assistants. The courtyard is also a special aspect of Fanning and was recently refurbished with painting and landscaping. The courtyard functions as a quiet place to relax and enjoy being outside. When asked what makes Fanning special, Head Resident Jennifer Driver said that she loves the RA dinners, which is an event where she and the Resident Assistants make dinner for all the girls in the dorm.

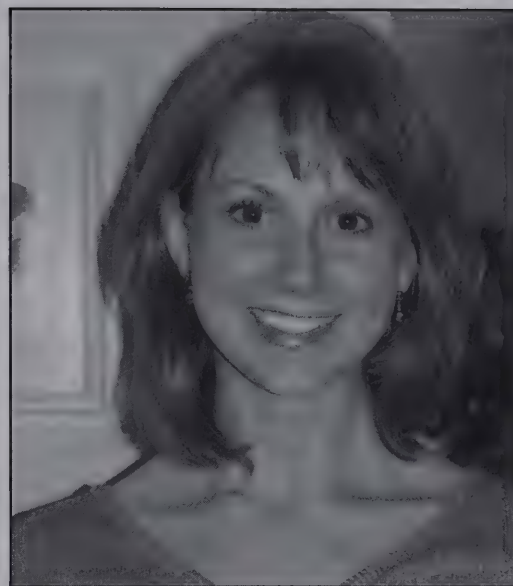

Amber Ash grabs for some delicious food that the Fanning RAs prepared for the Fanning residents. All the girls enjoyed home-cooked sesame chicken, fresh fruits, rolls, and various desserts.

Jennifer Driver is the Head Resident for Fanning Hall.

Kira Grasham of Suite 211, fixes the seam of her skirt.

Fanning residents enjoy socializing with their friends in their living room.

Johnson Hall

Of all the dorms, Johnson Hall has definitely had the most activity this year. Johnson has been under construction since the beginning of the Fall 2003 semester to build an addition onto the back of the building. When the addition is complete, Johnson will accommodate 300 girls in contrast to the 146 it housed in the Spring 2004 semester. Johnson employs seven Resident Assistants. Johnson has at least two parties each semester to help create a sense of unity, and the RAs also facilitate Bible studies for the girls on their floors. Head Resident Deborah Chapman says that she loves Johnson for the diversity of the talent of her girls.

Mallory Matthews and Colynn Williams take a short break from their homework.

Deborah Chapman is the Head Resident for Johnson Hall.

Alison Koczanski relaxes on her cozy chair after a long day in classes.

A Banner Year for Excellence

From the victories of the athletic teams on the court and field to the powerful production of a Shakespearean tragedy, the excellence of Lipscomb University has shown brightly this year.

The record-setting performance of the Lady Bison basketball team was remarkable. The women won the Atlantic Sun Conference and the team was competed in the NCAA tournament during our first year of eligibility, an uncommon accomplishment. Lady Bison head coach Frank Bennett's selection as the Atlantic Sun Conference coach of the year was a crowning compliment to the team's successful year.

However, excellence was not limited to the athletic programs. The music department offered an impressive performance of Handel's Messiah as their Christmas concert and the theatre department staged memorable renditions of Last Night at Ballyhoo and Shakespeare's Macbeth.

In addition, recognition was received by several individual students from sources beyond the borders of our campus. Nate Creekmore was awarded the Scripps Howard Foundation's National Journalism Award for 2003 for his weekly Babbler comic strip. Michael Rickelton received second place in Bluffton's Choral Composition Contest, second only to a professor of music composition. Jana Robinson, our one-woman debate team won the Quality Award in debate competition. The music department's Avalon Trio consisting of David Finney, pianist, Katie Shaner, violinist, and Molly Cronin, cellist, took first place in the Music Teachers' National Association Collegiate Chamber Music competition. Many other students served as ambassadors of excellence for the university by presenting papers at discipline specific and honor society conferences.

Lipscomb faculty continued to contribute to the knowledge base of their respective disciplines through presentations of papers at conferences and through the publication of journal articles and books.

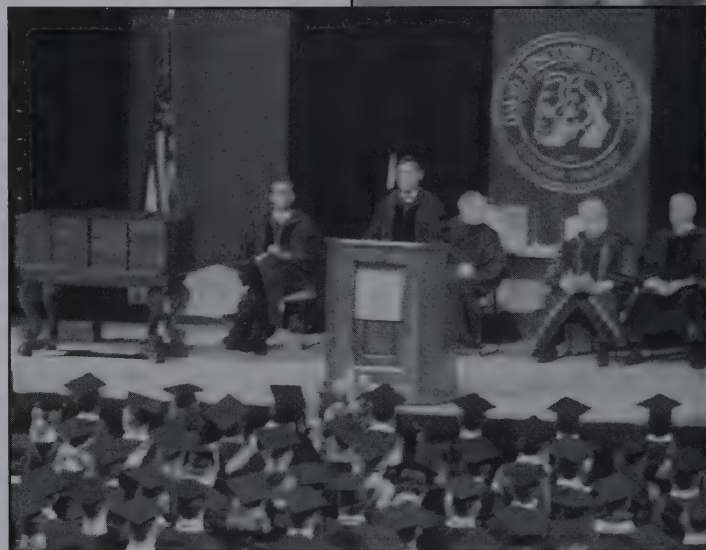

But above all, true excellence was exhibited by those administrators, faculty, staff, and students whose faith in God prompted acts of sacrifice and service, both great and small, for those around them. Acts performed, not to be seen of men, but simply for love's sake.

Men's Basketball

The Lipscomb University men's basketball team was a mix of old and new players with nine returning players and seven newcomers. The most exciting game of the season was "The Battle of the Boulevard," played against longtime rival, Belmont University. Nearly every seat in Allen Arena was filled for the televised game. Fans were especially excited since this was the first time the two rivals had played each other since 1996. The Bisons, who lead the game during the entire first half, eventually surrendered the lead in overtime with a final score of 66-64. Much of the Bison's season was filled with disappointment as they ended their season with a 7-21, 4-16 record. However, the men are ready to learn from their season's ups and downs and start fresh with a new season.

The Lady Bisons made a statement to many Atlantic Sun Conference coaches and the media by earning a four-way tie for the Atlantic Sun Conference regular season title with a 14-6 record and winning the A-Sun Tournament Championship in their first ever appearance. Those coaches and media who picked in a preseason poll Lipscomb's Lady Bisons to finish eight in the conference. Not only did the Lady Bisons end their season with a stunning record, but they brought in several individual awards throughout the season. Frank Bennett won the A-Sun Coach-of-the-Year award in just his first season in the conference. Junior Courtney Boynton earned team honors, sophomore Katie Beth Pate was named to the All-Tournament team and was named tournament MVP, and Lynn Roller was presented the Walter Nipper Sportsmanship Award. The Lady Bisons look forward to a new season with new opportunities and dreams.

Brandon Rosenthal had high hopes for the Women's Volleyball team as he began his first year as Lipscomb University's Head Women's Volleyball Coach. Ending the season with an 8-22 record, the Lady Bisons finished 14th nationwide in NCAA Division 1 in service aces with 240 in 107 games. Senior Kristen Peck led the team in service aces with average of 0.54 per game, tied for the second best average in the A-Sun. Kristen's performance on the court earned her positions on three All-Tournament teams, and recognition as an A-Sun player of the Week. Two other players ranked among the top six in terms of service aces per game. Rosenthal should be very pleased with the women on his team.

LIFELONG LEARNING PROGRAM

Sponsored by the Office of the Provost, the Lifelong Learning Program (LLP) offers those of retirement age an opportunity to expand knowledge and explore new ideas in an informal setting - no exams, no grades. Offered in five week sessions, classes meet for one and a half hours once a week. Fall classes were Who Was Edgar Allan Poe; Meet the Greeks; Archaeology and the New Testament; Musicals, Operas, Masterpieces; Computer I, Computer II; Tale of Two Parthenons; Islam; Prophecy, Fulfillment in the Bible; and Come, Tour Nashville Sites. Spring classes included Moonlight and Magnolias - Southern Women Writers; The Westerns of John Ford; Impact of Broadcast News on American Society; Religions in a World of Conflict; Literary Nashville; England's Five Greatest Monarchs; Computer I, Computer III; and Floral Design - Design, Selection of Flowers; Demonstrations. For the first time a Maymester course was offered - Legends of Jazz.

AWARDS

One sure measure of a university's achievement is the commitment of its students to excellence in learning and leadership. We celebrate the achievement of those students who have distinguished themselves as scholars and academic leaders in a variety of programs and disciplines.

We recognize scholars and leaders in the following areas: academic departments, Who's Who, Miss Lipscomb, Bachelor of Ugliness, Homecoming Queen, editors of the Babbler and the Backlog, and officers of the Student Government Association.

Through their hard work and with the support of their families and friends, these students have brought credit not only to themselves and their families but to Lipscomb University as well. Lipscomb deeply appreciates the contributions that each of these award winners has made toward enhancing our academic mission and enriching our academic community.

Graduation Celebrating a Banner Year

Lipscomb University held graduation ceremonies on December 20, 2003 and May 8, 2004. More than 500 persons received bachelor and master's degrees during this academic year. Former Governor Winfield Dunn addressed the May class and at that same ceremony Willard Collins was awarded an honorary doctor of humane letters. At both the December and May ceremonies academic leaders of the graduating classes were recognized and the Stephen Lee Marsh Christian Example Award was presented to a student who exemplified Christian service while a student at Lipscomb. At the May exercise the Goodpasture Bible Award was given to the male graduate who preaches or plans on preaching the gospel, and outstanding faculty were recognized.

No other day of a semester exemplifies the ideas of community, spirituality, tradition, and excellence like graduation day. Graduation days are steeped in tradition. From the academic regalia that is worn to what is said to the music that is heard, graduates are ushered into the ranks of alumni in very traditional ways. The academic and family communities come together to rejoice with students as they celebrate their accomplishments of excellence, and sentimental journeys are common fare for the day as graduates remember the experiences that have made up their individual Lipscomb lives. And with the tolling of the bell, the past and the future come together as we bring closure to one and anticipate yet another banner year at Lipscomb University.

Graduation Day's First Light The Provost's Breakfast

Graduation day is one that is filled with activity for those completing their degrees. It is a day of celebrating excellence and experiencing traditions that have long since been a part of such occasions. For Lipscomb graduates, perhaps no tradition associated with graduation is as unique as the first activity of the day, the provost's breakfast. Since 1948, every graduating class has begun graduation day with a breakfast. And not just any breakfast, but one served to them by the university faculty. The faculty don white waiter's coats and are the first to congratulate and welcome the graduates into the degreed ranks as they begin this day of celebrating their accomplishments.

Colophon

The theme, "A Banner Year," was chosen for this yearbook because of the new banners displayed around campus that represent the areas in which Lipscomb University shows pride. These banners represent the aspects of Community, Excellence, Tradition, and Spirituality.

Volume 83 of Lipscomb University's Backlog was printed by Herff-Jones Yearbooks in Montgomery, AL. Mary Harris was the Herff-Jones representative and Dr. Randy Bouldin was the Yearbook Committee advisor.

Each spread was designed with Adobe PageMaker 7.0. Layouts were either created by staff members using Adobe PageMaker 7.0 or chosen from Herff-Jones predesigned layouts in "Your Layouts."

A 1-inch hairline was used on all the pictures. Pictures were submitted either as hard copies or digital pictures. Hard copy pictures were compliments of Backlog staff members and university students. A Sony Cyber-Shot 5.0 Mega Pixels digital camera was used for digital pictures. Digital pictures were taken by staff members, Lipscomb University's Public Relations staff, and Michael's Photography. Copy was done by Backlog staff members, Backlog advisor Dr. Randy Bouldin, Beth Thompson, Beth Quarles, Kim Chaudoin, Babbler staff members, Dr. George Goldman and Ashley Call.

The 2004 Backlog consisted of 224 black and white pages. 1900 copies of Backlog, Volume 83 were distributed to Lipscomb University Board of Trustees, students, faculty and staff members.
